Dear Doug Magyari,

December 19, 2005

The acoustical panels that Doug Magyari has invented and installed in the Walled Lake Central band room were just the thing I, and my musicians needed to make our rehearsal space ideal for learning and music making. With Doug's product, my students are better able to hear across the band. I am also able to physically space them out more, which allows the students to better evaluate their own playing. The result is more sensitive, enjoyable, and communicative music making. Our first concert of this season was much improved, I believe in large part, to the significantly improved acoustics of our rehearsal space. The maturity of the students' individual playing has also increased due to their being able to hear and evaluate themselves significantly better.

Doug Magyari is so passionate about acoustics and providing better acoustical environments for musicians to work or perform in, that he will not stop until your space is perfect for your needs. He has been an incredible asset to my program.
